the MENU

At Jack and Addi Photography our primary goal is to create stunning wedding artwork you'll treasure for a lifetime. After your honeymoon we will bring you back in to see your images and enjoy a personal ordering appointment to ensure you get products that both suit your home decor and lifestyle. After your order is placed we will create a shareable web gallery that will stay open for one month, so you can share your images with friends and family.

THE JACK + ADDI WEDDING EXPERIENCE STARTS AT | $3500

Every bride and groom is unique, each with different wants and desires for the wedding day, which is why we don't have a "one size fits all" mentality when it comes to your wedding. We have a simple starting coverage investment then our couples build their wedding dreams a la carte. On average, when the dancing shoes are put away, Jack and Addi couples invest between $3500 and $4500 on the wedding photography experience and portraits.

Every wedding with Jack and Addi includes a complete day of wedding coverage filled with fun and emotional photographs. We don't want you thinking about what might get missed based on time, so just know we have it all covered. Most importantly every couple gets a storybook album. We try to photograph a wedding like a story, so as you look through the images everyone can experience the whole day, with every detail, whether they were at the wedding or not.

Cheers,
Brock Kirschenmann

fun engagement SESSION TIPS

As mentioned, we include an engagement session for all our couples who book wedding coverage so we can really get to know them before the wedding day. Engagement photos don't have to be all formal and proper. Let's have a total blast together and still get great pictures, those are the photos you'll love, guaranteed.

Engagement photos might not seem like that big of deal, but they are going to be more important than you probably realize and thinking through the process will help you end up with pictures that best reflect both you as a couple and your love for one another. Also, the pictures you create during your engagement shoot might be used in other things later like save the date mailings, wedding program, guest book and reception decorations.

HERE IS A LITTLE GUIDE TO HELP YOU START THINKING ABOUT A FUN ENGAGEMENT SESSION.

GETTING CREATIVE | How do you make the photos really fun, creative and memorable? This can be done several ways, but before making any decisions you should decide, as a couple, how you want the final overall look and feel of the portraits to end up. You don't need to have one set theme for all of the photos, but you need to have a plan for what each of the themes are going to be.

Remember, don't forget the little details, props can be a huge part of a theme shoot. Maybe for example you want a carnival theme. You will likely be wearing clothing and accessories that fit, but maybe there is a buffet of candy, stuffed animals and games on a table nearby that we will also incorporate into the photos throughout the session.

CHOOSING THE RIGHT LOCATIONS | The next thing you need to decide are the locations where you would like to have your engagement photos taken. These locations are places that would either look really cool, or places that are special to you as a couple. By choosing different locations that have some type of connection to your relationship you'll be more genuine during your shoot and you're guaranteed to appreciate the images more in the years to come.

Some great places that could potentially make your list of locations are:

- Where you first met or had your first date.
- A restaurant, coffee shop or any other location that you frequent as a couple.
- A really cool looking landscape or skyline that's near by.
- A location with lots of bright and vibrant colors.
- A location that would be the last place you would think of taking pictures, like an abandoned warehouse or old junk yard can look fantastic. Let's go on an adventure together and take pictures along the way.

Once you select your locations, don't be afraid to get outside of your comfort zone a little bit when you're getting your photos taken. Have fun and explore the spaces – you're only going to have one chance, so don't leave anything out that you'll regret not getting once you're finished. Also, while you're traveling to your different locations, don't be afraid to make an impromptu stop if you feel the need to take advantage of a new place that just presented itself.

CLOTHING OPTIONS AND IDEAS FOR POSES | Depending on how many locations that you're planning on going to and how long you want to shoot, you may only need one outfit. But, if you're in it for the long haul and have plenty of time and patience, think outside the box. Just remember, if you have the room to haul around a bunch of clothes, it's always better to pack more stuff than less. Having options is never a bad thing. So, be prepared and once again, have some fun with it!

Your poses tie in with the clothing that you choose because potentially some of your clothes could limit your poses due to being too restricted, revealing or who knows what. Your poses should once again reflect your personality as a couple and you should try to get as many different poses at each location as your time allows. Also, be ready to do a lot of smiling, kissing, nose-rubbing and butt grabbing because these are what help create some of the most amazing natural portraits you'll create.

We recommend simply doing a Google search for "theme engagement photos" this will yield millions of inspirational samples that can hopefully get your wheels turning a little bit. Enjoy them and also be sure to enjoy the entire process once it's time for you to take your own. The more fun you have, the better your engagement photos will be, We guarantee it!
